

Observations:

- a) As the value of alpha increases, the execution time decreases for smaller values of 'k' whereas execution time increases for larger values of 'k'
- b) This is because for larger alpha, smaller values of 'k' can be found easily in less number of iterations whereas as the value of 'k' increases we have to check more number of data points (as there are more data points in a single leaf).